

WEHRLE PROPOSITION

Receives Hearty Endorsement of Newark Citizens

Mass Meeting Will Be Held on Thursday Night, Jan. 8

TO DISCUSS THE MATTER THOROUGHLY
Business Men Pronounce It the Best Proposition Ever Submitted in Newark--Lots Must Be Sold Quickly--The Proposition Reviewed.

The proposition of Wm. W. Wehrle and Edward Thomas for the Wehrle Stove company and the James E. Thomas company respectively, to establish new factories on the Forry farm in the west end of the city, employing about 850 men, on condition that the Board of Trade sell 200 lots into which the Forry place is to be divided, at an average price of $250, has met with a very favorable reception in Newark.

The unanimity with which the project is endorsed is very gratifying to the directors of the Board of Trade who have entered into an agreement with Messrs. Wehrle and Thomas.

A few of the business men of the city met late Tuesday afternoon at the Peoples National Bank to discuss the matter in the presence of Messrs. Wehrle and Thomas. President F. M. Black of the Board of Trade outlined the proposition which was stated fully in these columns Tuesday evening. Then Mr. William W. Wehrle followed with a general talk on his plans and Mr. Thomas explained in detail the Thomas company's intention to build a big iron mill in West Newark. The discussion after this became general and every man who spoke approved the contract that had been entered into by the Board of Trade directors with Messrs. Wehrle and Thomas.

The sentiment of the meeting was expressed in the following resolution which was adopted unanimously: To the Citizens of Newark, Ohio:

We, the undersigned citizens of Newark, Ohio, having carefully investigated and examined the propositions of Messrs. Wehrle and Thomas, to erect and operate two large plants in this city, employing between 800 and 1000 men, upon the simple condition that the Board of Trade sell 200 lots at an average price of $250 each by the 15th day of January, 1903, unhesitatingly endorse the same, as being the largest, most substantial, business-like and promising proposition ever offered to the citizens of Newark, and recommend that these 200 lots be subscribed for at once and the propositions be accepted not later than next Monday, and hereby pledge ourselves to give at least one day to the work of securing lot subscribers.

The above resolution with the signatures attached may be seen conspicuously displayed in another part of this paper.

After this action had been taken several of the men present, who were not members of the Board of Trade, directory suggested that the lot subscription papers be opened at once. The Board of Trade had intended not to start the paper at that meeting, but had called a few men together to get their opinions on the proposition before beginning the active work of selling lots.

Nearly fifty lots were taken voluntarily at this meeting, almost every man present either signing for one or more lots or agreeing to do so within a day or two. This beginning is most encouraging but it should not be forgotten that the remaining 150 lots must be taken within the next eight days.

As fully explained in Tuesday's paper, Mr. Wehrle must know not later than that date whether the project will be a go in order that he may secure the contracts which will make the construction of the big plant possible and also in order to place his orders for material to construct the several big factory buildings. The main building it will be remembered is to be one thousand feet long and 140 feet in width. More than 2,000,000 bricks will be used in the Wehrle buildings alone.

At the meeting Mr. Wehrle said that if the lot sale is completed he will begin at once to erect the foundry buildings so as to have the additional plant in operation by July 1.

Before the meeting adjourned a motion prevailed to have a citizens' meeting at the City Hall building on West Main street at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. Every man at yesterday's little gathering is to be present and bring three or more others.

At this meeting the whole proposition will be again gone over fully so that any who are not familiar with all the details of the project may be informed by attending the meeting.

All who are interested in the success of this enterprise are urged to be present at this meeting tomorrow evening in the city hall. Let everybody attend. (While you will be invited to participate in the purchase of lots no one will be embarrassed in the least by the soliciting committee's appeal.

The engraving company, which is making cuts of the proposed Wehrle addition showing the new factories with the dimensions of each building and the location of the streets and alleys will have them ready for publication in the Newark paper's Friday evening.

Here are a few facts that should not be forgotten:

Wehrle and Thomas will build two factories employing 850 or more men than they now employ.

They will have a monthly pay roll of $75,000—a yearly output in wages of $900,000—a daily output in wages of $2500.

The Wehrle foundry will be the largest stove foundry in the entire world.

The two factories will bring from 3,500 to 4,000 new people to Newark.

The two factories will necessitate the erection of at least 400 new houses in Newark in the spring to accommodate the newcomers.

Some one of the lot buyers will get free of cost the fine brick house on the Forry place, as every lot buyer gets a chance on this place with every $50 he pays on a lot.

The lots are divided into three classes: A lots $300; B lots $250; C lots $200. The A lots are all corner lots and there are 47 of them.

By the agreement Trustee Samuel P. VanVoorhis is empowered to spend $5,000 in grading the lots and streets.

The lot buyer pays 20 per cent of the purchase price of his lot when 200 are sold, and 10 per cent a month till the lot is paid for, the deferred payments to draw 6 per cent interest—but not until AFTER THE PAYMENTS ARE DUE.

Lots will be drawn in sealed envelopes so that everyone has an equal chance with every other purchaser.

It is the intention of building a viaduct under the railway tracks to connect the new addition with the main part of the city.

Many lots much farther from the public square are selling for prices higher than asked in this proposition.

The two factories mean that Wehrle and Thomas will spend a quarter of a million of dollars in erecting and equipping the plants.

The lot sale will compensate Mr. Wehrle for the land purchased, pay for the grading and the necessary expenses of putting the lots on the market. He will get practically nothing more than that.

The erection of these two factories

CARNEGIE

Has Given Away 700 Libraries in Past Few Years He Announces Today.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The new library given to the city by Carnegie was dedicated this afternoon. President Roosevelt, members of the cabinet and Carnegie were present. The library cost $277,000. Mr. Carnegie in a speech said he had given 700 libraries in the past few years. He said his chief work now was library manufacturing business. Of libraries he said: "Free libraries maintained by the people are cradles of democracy and their spread never fails to extend and strengthen the democratic idea, the equality of the citizen and the equality of man."

AT LARGE

ALLEGED FATHER OF THE DEAD CHILD.

Robert Jones Suspected by the Police. He is a Plasterer at Martinsville, Ohio.

Wilmington, Ohio, Jan. 7.—Robert Jones, the negro suspected of the murder of the baby found on a B. & O. train, is still at large. The baby was found by a B. & O. trainman of Newark, as wired the Advocate.

Jones is a plasterer living near Martinsville. He is married and has children.

Sunday Mrs. Henselman a white woman, came to Jones' house with a baby, girl which she left in his care. Sunday night Jones disappeared with the infant. When the body was found persons at Martinsville suspected Jones. The body was expressed to Wilmington and identified by Mrs. Henselman as her child. The woman affirmed that Jones is her father. She says Jones and his wife expressed willingness to keep it, and she gave it to the couple for that reason. Mrs. Henselman lives in Morrisville with her husband and one daughter. Officers are in search of Jones.

Attend the mass meeting Thursday night and take others with you. Remember every lot must be sold by January 15 or the project is lost.

The main foundry building will be 1000 feet long and 140 feet wide. Think of the length of this building—almost as long as the distance from the Hotel Warden to the City Hall, across the court house park and up Main street.

When you are asked to buy a lot please decide whether you can take it without delay. The work must be quickly done and the soliciting committee has no time to waste.

This is an opportunity the like of which has not before been presented to the people of Newark. Don't let the time pass without getting the two factories. It means Greater Newark.

EXCITEMENT

Over Closing Postoffice in Mississippi is Spreading Over the Entire South.

New Orleans, Jan. 7.—Excitement over the closing of the postoffice at Indianola, Miss., by President Roosevelt, is spreading over the south and a general uprising against negro office holders is threatened. Special dispatches received here show that the white people living along the lines of the Alabama and Vicksburg, Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific, L. & N., and Southern railways have demanded the immediate resignations of negro postal clerks running on these roads, and the department is much worried over the situation. There are 200 negro postal clerks on Atlanta division of the railway mail service alone. These negro clerks are reported to be in a condition bordering on panic.

BURGLAR

Followed by Policeman Who After a Desperate Fight Landed Him in Jail.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 7.—Watchman Dolan of the Otis Steel Co. this morning saw four men carrying away freight from box cars. He gave chase to one who jumped into a wagon. Dolan followed and had a hand to hand encounter with the burglar. The horse ran away. Dolan and the burglar were grown to the street and the burglar tried to shoot Dolan. Dolan took away his revolver and told the burglar to be quiet or he would kill him. Finally he landed his man in jail and recovered $100 worth of stolen silk and several cases of whisky. The other men escaped.

ON ROCKY SHORE

Prince Arthur Mistook Lightship for Island and Sailed to Destruction, Eighteen People Being Drowned.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 7.—A special light ship for Tatoosh island and sailed eastward, believing she was entering the straits instead of running blindly to her fate. Of the twenty members of the Prince Albert crew only two were saved and they were nearly exhausted when they were washed ashore. The bodies of 18 drowned seamen are being buried by ranchers and Indians living near the scene of the disaster as they come ashore.

Although Ozette is but thirteen miles from the Neah bay news of the wreck was received, by way of East Callam, having been brought out by a mail carrier over a 25 mile trail. Owing to the inaccessible position of Ozette only meagre details are obtainable. The Prince Arthur was an iron bark of 1598 tons net.

ROBBERS

Overtaken by Posse and One Man Was Fatally Shot—Another Was Captured.

Eagle, Wis. Jan. 7.—In a fight this morning between a posse of citizens of Eagle and four bank robbers, one of the latter was probably fatally shot and another was captured. A quantity of nitro-glycerine and a complete set of burglar tools was found on the wounded man. The men refused to give their names. The quartet had stolen a horse and sleigh and had started for Mukwonago, but the theft was discovered a few minutes after it was committed and the robbers overtaken.

HANGED

Youthful Murderer Who Poisoned Two Little Boys for Small Sum of Money.

Camden, Jan. 7.—Paul Woodward, the youthful murderer of the boys, John Coffin and W. Price Jennings, was hanged at 10 o'clock this morning. Sheriff Mines conducted the execution with decency and despatch. The crime for which Paul Woodward forfeited his life was the murder of two boys, aged 11 and 4 years respectively. He poisoned them with strychnine for a small sum of money.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

At the prayer service at St. Paul's church on Tuesday evening, the pastor, Rev. J. C. Schindel, spoke upon "The Public Schools and Denominational College," and special prayer was offered for our institutions of learning. In Mr. Schindel's address the public school was praised for what it had done, and the declaration was made that the future was assured when an American flag floated over every public school building and there was a Bible on every teacher's desk, with a Christian teacher behind the desk, who knew how to use that Bible. In the prayer for Christian colleges a plea was made that parents dedicate and train their sons for the ministry of reconciliation through Christ. The service was largely attended, and many favorable comments have been made on the pastor's address.

GRAND JURY

The Grand Jury which began its sitting last Monday made a report at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The indictments follow: Henry Riggelman, petit larceny. Jos. Kuster, maintaining slot machine. Ernest Woiwerton, burglary and grand larceny. James Costley, burglary and grand larceny. Virgil Dush, obtaining money under false pretenses. Frank Cain, burglary and grand larceny.

Concerning all the antitrust bills which are now pending at Washington, does anybody suppose that even the mildest of them has a ghost of a show with this Congress?

A Congress which is as silent as the tomb in the presence of the coal trust, and the Standard Oil trust, both of them protected by the tariff, is not likely to move on trusts in general.

If there were a disposition on the part of the controlling men at Washington to deprive these extortioners of the shelter which the high tariff affords them it would not take more than an hour to pass a bill repealing the duties which favor them and which the high tariff affords them it would not take more than an hour to pass a bill repealing the duties which favor them and which constitute the most flagitious betrayal of the public of which there is any record.

Both of these schedules were placed in the Dingley bill surreptitiously, both were denied on the stump by Republican leaders and by Republican newspapers during the campaign last year, but both are now confessed by everybody. They show very conclusively how Republican Congresses act en masse under the whip of the monopolies and trusts.

No one expects this Congress to deal adequately with the trust question. It is wedded to its prohibitive tariff idols. It will not assail the chief refuge of privilege and extortion.

But why should it not uncover the criminals of the anthracite and the oil trusts, against whom even Republicans are clamoring and whose protection was gained sneakily and, as is alleged, without the knowledge of the men who gave it?

One valuable principle which the Venezuelan arbitration may settle is the exact length to which nations may go in collecting private debts due citizens. The subject of all the inhabitants of a country to the cost of life and property of a war solely to collect a private debt has not been a doctrine of international law. Of course the Monroe doctrine need not be mentioned in this connection.

The sharp rivalry between senators for the paternity of the most impressive antitrust measure is entertaining. Unfortunately there is one elementary defect in all of the proposed measures. They lack the consent of the Republican leaders. There is no well-grounded hope that these leaders will permit the adoption of any measure which will seriously cripple or restrain even the "bad" trusts.

Always Falls on the Consumer.

(Baltimore Sun.)

It has been the experience in recent advances in wages that the public, the consumer, must pay the freight. When the wages of railroad employees have been advanced the advance has been usually accompanied by an increase in freight rates, so that upon the whole the company has perhaps made money by the operation. Mr. Rockefeller gives a million dollars to a college and raises the price of oil so that he will get his million dollars back from the public many times over. The people would appreciate liberality by the corporations to their employees, whether in the form of profit sharing or in the increase of wages, if the liberality was at the expense of the corporation and not extorted from the public.

BOW OF PROMISE

Spanning the Eastern Horizon of Ohio Democracy

Sun Shining Through Rifts in Republican Clouds—Republicans Growing Restive Under the Hanna-Foraker Political Trust.

Columbus, O., Jan. 7.—Almost a year ago the late Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois, in an address delivered in Columbus in commemoration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, declared that the pendulum of events could swing only so far in one direction before it started to return over the same course. With prophetic eye that philosophic statesman foresaw that the political tide was already beginning on its recession. Since that time a Democratic tidal wave has been slowly rising in the east and setting toward the west, as in 1892 a Democratic tide rose in the west and rolled toward the East. By a bare eye-lash the great Empire State all but turned into the Democratic procession, while the Democratic side of the lower house of congress was materially swelled in numbers and ability.

A SPIRIT OF UNREST.

In almost every state the spirit of unrest seems to pervade the dominant political party of this country. And nowhere is that feeling more pronounced than in the state of Ohio, where two men, through their lieutenant, alternately dominate conventions and arbitrarily dictate nominations. That spirit of concentration which has seized upon the industrial world has likewise sought a similar absolutism in the Republican political world, and nowhere is that aggression more tyrannical and domineering than in the affairs of the Republicans of Ohio. But the signs of the times portend the end of this modern political feudalism of Mark Hanna and J. B. Foraker and in the destruction and overthrow of this political oligarchy the horizon is clearing to the Democratic vision and ere long destiny may set the bow of promise in the eastern skies to recall the dark days following the war, the disastrous rout of 1872 followed the next year by the signal and unparalleled triumphs of 1873 and 1874.

THE TRUE SITUATION.

That the Ohio Republicans are restive under the lash of the Caesars who have long passed their Rubicon is patent to every eye. Already the Hanna machine is broken into two warring factions, one headed by that tin soldier, Dick, and the other by the Cleveland plutocrat, Herrick, both followers and creatures of Mark Hanna and the Moses and Aaron of his own absolute sovereignty. Standing intact is the Foraker machine, stealthily waiting for the Hanna machine to lash itself to pieces in the gigantic struggle between Dick and Herrick, that it may seize its opportunity to destroy both. Still farther off to one side is the implacable Daugherty, hating Foraker, despising Dick, being despised in return by Hanna, smothering with the fires of revenge and ready for any alliance that will bring disaster and ruin to any of its factional enemies. This in brief is the situation confronting the Democratic party of Ohio.

A PEOPLE'S PARTY.

The strength of the Democratic party rests in its immutable principle of the referendum, and where the referendum of the primary prevails dictators are absent. From dictatorship in politics it is but a short cut to dictatorship in legislation and through the operation of this pernicious system the people of Ohio have seen a former governor leaving bankruptcy behind him and taking his place with the millionaire class, all within the brief period of ten years.

OFFICIAL POLLUTION.

If the people of Ohio could only understand how their legislative birthright is daily bought and sold in the shambles of Republican legislation, the record of unbroken Republican triumph in the state for the past ten years would be at an end, and a Democratic governor would sit in one corner of the state capital with a Democratic general assembly in another. A Democrat of the Jackson type would go to represent Ohio in the national senate, and the stream of honest public indignation would be turned with full force on the Augean stables now termed the penal, reformatory and charitable institutions of this State. Scarcely a public institution stands as a monument to the charity of the people of Ohio which has not been polluted with the vandal hands of the official purloiner and shamed by the exposition of the deeds of the licentious. Scandal has fast followed on the heels of scandal, and no sooner had official charity's mantle hidden away one until the disease broke out elsewhere.

ONE WAY TO WIN.

With a good man on the state ticket, and local nominations possessing the rigid requirements of fitness and popularity, the Ohio Democrats may accomplish something that will attract attention to them in the campaign that is to follow a year later. The state abounds in clean, honorable and upright men yet on the sunny side of life who would adorn the ticket and bring back some of the halo of other days. With the new code as a millstone about the Republican neck, and an open war on the arrogant assumption of official heredity in the state institutions, backed up by a harmonious and concentrated Democratic press, the Republican battlements and fortifications that now appear so side is the implacable Daugherty, hating Foraker, despising Dick, being despised in return by Hanna, smothering with the fires of revenge and

THE COURT OF CUPID

SOME DEFINITIONS OF LOVE, POETIC AND OTHERWISE.

Differing Tones That Blend Into a Harmonious Matrimonial Chord. Diverse Views as to What Constitutes "The Ideal Woman."

Tennyson says in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. With the young men and women of Vigo county consideration of this interesting theme is not confined to one season. It has the right of way at all times and seasons.

Definitions of love were being discussed when a refined woman said the most comprehensive and beautiful definition she had ever seen was written by Amanda Douglas. Here it is:

"Love comes with truth in her heart and constancy in every pulse to sit down an everlasting guest in the hearts of those who truly welcome her. If there are sorrows and storms, she spreads her wings for an ark of shelter; if toil and care, she lightens them with her blessed smile. No room for regrets or jealousies, for both are true in deed and thought; no coldness, for she stands between them and the frosts of time. Year by year they grow into perfect accord, bringing heaven nearer with every dawn."

"Can such love ever fail?"
A jolly girl present said, "Love is a tickling sensation round the heart that cannot be scratched."

A modest, blushing young lady remarked, "It is something indescribable, must be spontaneous, cannot be bought or coaxed into being and when it grows cold cannot be warmed." Still we hear people constantly saying, "I learned to love him."

There is no subject upon which a man or woman, young or middle aged, provided they are not married, will become so animated as "my ideal woman" and "my ideal man."

Usually the tall men and women admire those of medium or diminutive stature; the fat, the lean; the blond, the brunette; the jolly, the sedate. The union of two people with different characteristics, provided they agree on the fundamentals, makes a harmonious whole, the one furnishing the needed complement of the other.

The lawyer prefers the woman averse to arguing. He gets his sufficiency of close reasoning in the courtroom. The garrulous man seeks a good listener. The conceited one admires the modest woman who enjoys burning incense before his altar. The man of few words picks out the woman of bright conversational powers.

It is difficult to surmise from a man's general attributes what is his ideal woman.

I asked a Terre Haute gentleman who has been much in public life and has been thrown with many brilliant women what was his ideal woman. "I was surprised to hear him say emphatically not a convention woman or one who goes about delivering speeches and lectures upon a public rostrum. 'My ideal woman is one who can hold her own in conversation with other women and men of brains in the parlor, who is self-reliant, yet looks to a man and depends upon him; not too good to drink a glass of wine, to tell a good story if the occasion warrants it, yet she must not be carried off her feet. She must be able to work both physically and mentally and be ashamed to follow in the wake of idle women.'

A society young man not given to explicit statements has confided this much about his ideal woman. She must be good looking. Perish the thought of sitting opposite an ugly woman at the table one thousand and ninety-five times in a year. His ideal woman must not be bold, still not afraid of athletic sports; must be a good golfer and tennis player, ride a horse with confidence, fire a gun, row with a steady stroke. "A superb looking, well proportioned woman in the saddle is a sight for the gods." Anything but a namby pamby woman, one afraid of her shadow, for this young fellow.

There is a proverb that runs thus: "Whistling girls and crowing hens always come to some bad end." At least one Terre Haute gentleman thinks this is an absurd statement. In fact, the ability to whistle well he regards as an essential in his ideal woman. And she must have rich, glossy hair, lustrous dark eyes, shapely hands and finger nails, dainty feet, be jolly and companionable, a person to cheer a fellow up when worried and worn out with business. No bookworm or woman's suffrage advocate can be classed as his ideal. A lover of music, not the ultra classic, is an essential for this gentleman's ideal woman.

A bold, dashing youth holds as his ideal a womanly woman, even to timidity, but morally brave, one who will reward him as he ought and clasp her soft tendrils about him for support. This dependence, he avers, will keep him at his best and his ideal refined. Sweet, noble, human.—Susan W. Ball in Terre Haute Gazette.

24 NEW YEAR MODES.

The New Velvet Suits Fit snugly to the Figure.

[Special Correspondence.]
New York, Jan. 5.—Nothing could be prettier for a woman with a fine figure than the velvet suit herewith portrayed. It is a welcome relief from the everlasting blouse and skirt waist styles. While one must admit that these two styles are useful and becoming to many, the snuggly fitting garments are neater and define a good figure better than the others. This suit is the representative of the new revolt against so much of the loose effect that has obtained so long.

The coat has a suggestion of the empire styles in the accurate adjustment at the waist of the skirt portion and the bodice of the coat. The close darts make it fit well to the waist, and the double row of fancy buttons accentuates the style. The revers are made of white satin and are covered with application of Irish crochet lace, a new fancy and a pretty one. This special lace is much heavier than Irish point and is much more showy. It stands up above the surface as though carved.

For the rest this elegant black velvet gown is lined with ivory satin as a finish for the coat. A band of chinchilla encircles the wrists, and a muff of the same dainty fur is to be carried. The skirt is cut with as many gores as the law governing such things will allow, and these all flare slightly, although it was thought awhile ago that flaring skirts had lost their popularity. But they haven't. Around the bottom and up the flares in sharp points two rows of silk serpentine braid are placed. They are joined in the middle by a row of heavier braid set on in the same way. This makes a rich and elegant trimming.

The soft gray beaver felt hat is bound around the edges and draped around the crown with black gauze striped with chenille. Under the brim is a small cluster of black tips, and in the back there falls a rich piece of lace. Thus the whole suit is gray and black and white. The combination of black and white has lost nothing of its popularity and is seen on many of the most fetching costumes of the season.

Among the dainty and youthful party dresses—which, by the way, are nearly always designated as frocks—we find some sparkling silver frosted tulle. It is certainly very perishable, and she who can get through one night with it without disaster is fortunate. But, oh, how beautiful it is! The girl who wears it looks like a frosty snow queen. With this evanescent material—for it is just that, and almost a breath would blow it away—there is offered a wreath of tiny white snow flowers or edelweiss. These, too, are frosted, so that the illusion is more perfect.

There are some other fancies in these tulle or gauze materials, one being a vivid red, with flame colored frosting. Another is yellow, with amber frost. How this is applied is a mystery, but while it remains on the flimsy stuff it is really beautiful. The dresses made of this have the skirts gathered full at the waist and are left to flow out in natural lines. It is obvious that gores and other arrangements such as flounces could not be successfully made in a material so fragile. The waist is usually what in old times was called a baby waist—that is, it is gathered full at the belt and neck—and the sleeves are scarcely more than puffs of the material. Some prefer long kimono sleeves, and others are shirred all the way down and droop off the shoulders, where the waist is held up by a strap.

White, red, yellow and all the old pinks and blues and greens suitable for gaslight are shown in the light and delicate fabrics for dancing. The young persons no longer wear rich silks and other costly fabrics for dancing. There is no poetry in a girl dragging a mass of heavy velvet, silk or brocade in a ballroom; there is in the floating, delicate and misty fabrics of this season. The heaviest material admissible is liberty, silk mull or possibly a light taffeta.

Floating sashes are worn this winter instead of the close draped belts. These sashes are long and are simply tied at the waist in a "hard knot" without bows or loops, in that way the ribbon falls easily to nearly the bottom of the dress. Roman colors are worn with all white and ebony ribbons with white and colors, but they must match. Soft liberty ribbon is much liked for this kind of use. Some sashes for dancing frocks have large roses made of the ribbon fastened at the ends and one at the waist.

None so good as the Rock Island.

"I write to express my gratitude for your kindness. I found everything as represented and enjoyed the trip very much. I traveled alone and on crutches, but I received every courtesy and kindness. I have traveled on a dozen or more railroads, but found none so good in every respect as the Rock Island."—From a Patron's Letter.

That is the way it goes—everybody who patronizes the Rock Island's tourist car excursions to California is delighted. Cars, route, porters, and excursion manager are RIGHT.

Tourist cars leave Chicago daily for Los Angeles and San Francisco via the El Paso-Rock Island route. The Wednesday and Friday cars are personally conducted. Scenic Line cars (via Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City) leave Tuesdays and Thursdays. Folder giving full information free on request.

UNCLE BEN WAS AHEAD

"I was in a small village in the interior of the state," said a Chicago man, "and one night at the postoffice I heard a man making certain historical statements that I knew to be incorrect. I felt it my duty to tell him so, and he resented it, and the crowd was with him. A day or two later I got hold of a history and attempted to show wherein the man was wrong, but the villager I was talking with replied: 'Yes, history agrees with you, but I can't. I've got to stick by Uncle Ben.' 'But is Uncle Ben better authority than history?' 'Well, he killed five rattlesnakes while he was mowing this summer, and I've never heard that history has even killed one.'"

THE EXCEPTION.

I hold a certain girl in mind,
Not far above the mediocre,
Yet, strange to say, I'm half inclined
To yoke her.

In looks, 'tis true, a likelier maid
Perchance has crossed this bard's horizon,
More beautiful girls he's often laid
His eyes on.

Ibsen and Richard Strauss she knows,
But really she's no rara avis.
Ragtime appeals, and, I suppose,
Dick Davis.

One day each week she cuts pink tea,
Departs this life of sweets and orchids
And enters a club of twenty-three
Or four kids.

While other girls their charms possess
She has an extra one that strikes me
Which others lack; I must confess
She likes me!

That's why I hold this girl in mind,
In most things merely mediocre;
That's why I'm more than half inclined
To yoke her.

Just a Matter of Taste.

Miss B. Wilder—Of course, but jewelry is going out of fashion.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Tautology.
Teacher—Eddie, what is tautology?
Eddie—A repetition of the same meaning in different words.

"Correct. Can you give an example?"
"Yes'm. Anthracite coal."
"Why is that tautological?"
"Because all anthracite is coal."

Teacher—Jimmie, can you give another example?
Jimmie—Yes'm—cold street cars.
"How do you make that out?"
"Why, all street cars is cold."—Baltimore Herald.

Sample at Hand.
"Taw," asked Tommy, looking up from the paper he was reading, "what are 'fixed charges'?"
"Fixed charges, Tommy," said Mr. Tucker, glancing furtively at the elderly and somewhat angular spinster seated comfortably by the fire at the other end of the room, "well, your Aunt Abigail is one of them."—Chicago Tribune.

RHEUMATISM

CANNOT BE RUBBED OUT

But a good liniment or plaster will often give temporary relief because it produces counter irritation or reduces the inflammation and soreness. But no sort of external treatment can have any effect whatever upon the disease itself, for Rheumatism is not a skin disease, but is due to an overacid condition of the blood, and the deposit of irritating matter or Uric Acid salts or sediment in the muscles and joints, and no amount of rubbing or blistering can dislodge these gritty particles or change the acid blood. Rheumatism often becomes chronic, and the muscles and joints permanently stiff and useless and the nervous system almost wrecked, because so much time is lost in trying to cure a blood disease with outside applications or doctoring the skin.

Rheumatism must be treated through the blood, and no remedy brings such prompt and lasting relief as S. S. S. It attacks the disease in the blood, neutralizes the acids, and removes all irritating or poisonous substances from the system.

S. S. S. strengthens and enriches the thin acid blood, and, as it circulates through the body, the corroding, gnawing poisons and acid deposits are dislodged and washed out of the muscles and joints, and the sufferer is happily relieved from the discomforts and misery of Rheumatism.

External remedies are all right so far as they go, but they don't go far enough, and you can't depend upon them to do the work of a blood purifier, and those who pin their faith to liniments and plasters as cures are bound to meet with disappointment, and will be nursing a case of Rheumatism the greater part of their lives.

S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy, does not contain any Potash or mineral of any kind, and can be taken with safety by old and young.

Rheumatic sufferers who write us about their case will receive valuable aid and helpful advice from our physicians, for which no charge is made. We will mail free our special book on Rheumatism, which is the result of years of practical experience in treating this disease. It contains in a condensed form much information about Rheumatism.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

NEW PHONES

Are Taking Place of Old Ones—The Company Now Operating Two Exchanges.

The Independent Telephone Company is today operating two exchanges in Newark—the old exchange in the Smucker block on Church street, and the new exchange above the Weland bakery. Both exchanges will be operated for several days.

The necessity for conducting both exchanges is due to the removal of the company's office and the installation of the new central energy exchange upon which work has been going on since last August. The company is now taking away the old phones of East Newark subscribers and putting up the new central energy telephones. As fast as possible the old phones will be removed from all subscribers' residences or places of business, and the new instruments installed. It will take several days to get all over the city with the new instruments, and until all of the new phones are in the old exchange cannot be abandoned. Trunk lines lead from one switchboard to the other so that only a few subscribers are "cut out" at any one time. Manager Hollander promises the best of service within a very few days.

AMUSEMENTS.

FOR JANUARY 9.

"An American Gentleman" is one of those lively, highly seasoned and wholesome plays so popular with all classes. This is the third successful season, both from a box office as well as an artistic standpoint. Not only is this drama well written, but the acts fit together consistently. The scenes are depicted on the Hudson river, in New York City and in a gypsy camp. This most interesting play will be seen at the Auditorium, January 9. There is an abundance of bright snappy comedy interwoven throughout the play, while the mountings and scenery are on an elaborate scale.

San Toy.

Dainty music, pretty girls, magnificent costumes and clever comedians are the elements which have made the musical comedy "San Toy" so popular with the theatre-going public. It is claimed that this season it will be found that "San Toy" is mounted in even better shape than ever before and that the company while nearly the same has been strengthened by a few changes that have been made. A new feature this season will be the orchestra, which is carried by the company and which is to be combined with a house orchestra, making an enlarged one, such as is not often heard outside of the large cities. In the cast of "San Toy" are Samuel Collins, George K. Fortescue, Hobart Smock, Nagle Barry, Sarony Lambert, Joseph Canto, Isobel Hall, Nellie Lynch, Norah Lambert, and a chorus of sixty. The orchestra will be directed by John Brahman. Auditorium, January 12.

FOR JANUARY 14.

"Another gem for my collection" remarked clever Mayne Gehrue the leading comedienne of the "When Rueben Comes to Town" company, which is billed for January 14, as she displayed a very leaden piece of silver. "Collection of what?" asked her companion. "Why of counterfeits. Everybody on the stage is collecting something, and I have gone in for collecting 'the queer.' There is no trouble about it, except the excitement of keeping it 'dark' from the special treasury agents employed by Uncle Sam, and that only adds zest to the quest. Always hand out a five dollar bill when you buy something, and in the change you are bound to get a specimen or two for your collection. Chicago was a mine for me. In fact I got so much bad money there, that I was forced to refuse some of it in order to have enough good left to pay my hotel bill."

Miss Gehrue is not far from right in speaking of the collecting cult which has become an epidemic among stage people. Mrs. Fiske runs to porcelain. Amy Lee to play bills. Maxine Elliott photographs of herself and stage and musical celebrities. Frederick Ward, editions de luxe of the Elizabethan drama, and Anne Russell to artistic furniture and upholstery. Auditorium, January 14.

BAPTIST CHURCH—The ladies of the Baptist church will hold their missionary tea at the home of the pastor's wife, Mrs. F. F. Platt Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All are invited.

THE COURTS.

COMMON PLEAS COURT

In the case of George F. Harsh, administrator, vs. The B. & O. R. R. Co., a judgment by consent was entered in favor of plaintiff for $300. Plaintiff's decedent, John Harsh, was struck by a train at Black Hand crossing several years ago and killed. An action was brought to recover damages growing out of the accident, and the case has been settled as above indicated. Norpell & Norpell, Hunter; Kibler & Kibler.

The court is engaged today in trying the case entitled: In the matter of the Trustees of the Primitive Baptist church called "Friendship" at Newark, Ohio, for the sale of church property at Hog Run, Ohio. The applicants say that by a vote of the members of the congregation it was decided to purchase a lot and erect a place of worship for the members and congregation in Newark, and that the trustees proceed to sell the lot and building at Hog Run, and use the proceeds toward purchasing a lot and erecting a church in Newark. That a lot has been purchased in Newark and a church building erected thereon. That they need the funds to be derived from the sale of the premises at Hog Run. They ask the court for authority to sell and convey the old church property, and authority given to make deeds to the purchaser, Louisa N. Pitzer, Anna Dorsey, Peretta Griffith, Rebecca Crow, Arvilla Courson, Mrs. Alfred Beall and Alfred Beall and Mary E. Dorsey, regular members of the Regular Baptist church of Jesus Christ called "Friendship," of Hog Run, opposed the application and say that a burial ground upon a portion of the premises was established and started; that about one hundred bodies of members of the congregation and others have been buried there; they deny that it was competent, proper or legal, so far as said property is concerned, to remove the membership of said church to Newark, or to divert the property, or the proceeds thereof to the erection of another church edifice in Newark. They deny the authority of the members making the application for authority to sell, and deny that all or a majority have consented to the sale of the property and the disposition of the proceeds as claimed in the application. Hunter, Fulton & Fulton; Kibler & Kibler.

Mr. Little Discharged.

The case of the State of Ohio vs. T. Little was tried before Judge J. R. McHenry Tuesday afternoon and resulted in the court dismissing the defendant.

Little was charged by Jacob Kissel with being liquor to his son, Charles Kissel, a minor.

B. R. Nott appeared for the prosecution and J. L. James and R. W. Howell for the defendant.

The evidence did not show that Mr. Little had sold liquor to Kissel who is a young married man almost 21 years of age, and the court promptly discharged him.

A Reporter Who Became Premier

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—When Richard Harding Davis wrote his story about the reporter who assumed sovereignty over a small island in mid-ocean, he could have had no premonition that there was shortly to be an actual reporter working on similar lines, the sole exception being that this reporter, W. S. Wright by name, did not obtain sovereignty, but a premiership, an honor which was thrust upon him by a man whom he had befriended.

Premier Wright hails from Lafayette, Ind. At the time the Spanish war broke out he was a lieutenant in the United States signal corps and, with his company, was sent to Havana. After leaving the signal service he decided to remain in Cuba and establish a news bureau in the capital. Gradually he extended the usefulness of this bureau until it became the medium for conveying cipher messages sent by individuals not only to the United States, but to various West Indian countries. One of his most frequent patrons was a man who evidently was indulging in a political intrigue on a large scale, and the young American's curiosity grew as the days passed by and he could learn nothing of his mysterious visitor's identity.

Just about this time a rumor arose in the Cuban capital to the effect that ex-President Jimenez of Santo Domingo, who was supposed to be in hiding in the vicinity of Havana, contemplated leading a movement to regain the power he had lost. This rumor brought joy to the hearts of many adventure-loving Americans, for they saw a prospect of once more engaging in the exciting enterprises which had been their portion during the Spanish war.

Among this number was young Wright, who began a zealous campaign to discover the whereabouts of Jimenez. He finally succeeded in tracking him to his hiding place and, upon obtaining an interview, was astonished to learn that Jimenez was no other than the man who had been making so much use of his news bureau.

Jimenez gave him a cordial reception, but pointed out to him the fact that it was not at all likely the revolution would be productive of either money or glory for those concerned in it and that the only one vitally interested in its success was himself. Wright, however, was insistent and finally obtained the ex-president's permission to accompany him as a war correspondent.

The next day saw the news bureau closed and the youthful Hoosier en route to the designated port for the secret embarkation of the revolutionists. To his disgust, the boat on which they sailed was intercepted by an American gunboat, and though Jimenez and his fellow countrymen were promptly released, the Americans among the party were detained until orders came from General Wood to free them also.

As luck would have it, the expedition after resuming its start called at a port the name of which Jimenez conveyed to Wright by a trusted messenger. The reporter at once hurried there, arriving just in time to become once more a revolutionist. Santo Domingo

How Will Carleton Was Offered a Seat at His Own Lecture.
[Special Correspondence.]

New York, Jan. 5.—Many admirers of Will Carleton will be pleased to learn that the holiday sale of his poems has been large. While there are many critics who deny that Mr. Carleton writes poetry—and few persons will care what the critics say—no one can deny that Mr. Carleton has not made a financial success in the field of literature. Not only does he manage to make a good income with his pen, but he is in good demand as a lecturer.

Concerning his experiences as a lecturer, Mr. Carleton tells a number of good stories. One of these has to do with an incident which happened at Alliance, O. The poet was on his way to the hall in which he was to lecture and read some of his own poems. He had told the committee that they need not call for him at his hotel; that he wanted a little "think" by himself on the way over.

Hotel and hall were quite a distance apart, and Carleton was in so much

"SURE! HE IS A HIGH ROLLER." of a reverie as to be almost in danger of losing his way when he was overtaken and accosted by a little little Hebrew clothing dealer, who, evidently not knowing him and his habits of thought, struck up a friendly, general sort of conversation.

"Good evening," he said. "Was you a-going to hear Carleton?"

"I was," replied the poet, sadly and truthfully. "Am I in time to get there before he begins?"

"Oh, sure! You haf 'lakesful of time," rejoined the other. "Haf you efer heard him?"

"Yes," replied Carleton mournfully. "Several times."

"Do you know him personal?"

"Not very well," replied Carleton wearily. "Do you?"

"Sure!" replied the clothing store man. "I haf had some hot times with him in New York. He is a high roller now, I tell you. He owes me for a suit of clothes now, but I do not press the bill."

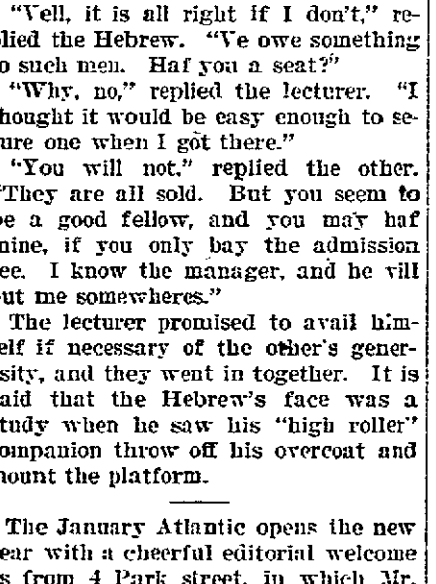

"You will never get it," replied Carleton.

"Well, it is all right if I don't," replied the Hebrew. "Ve owe something to such men. Haf you a seat?"

"Why, no," replied the lecturer. "I thought it would be easy enough to secure one when I got there."

"You will not," replied the other. "They are all sold. But you seem to be a good fellow, and you may haf mine, if you only pay the admission fee. I know the manager, and he will put me somewhere."

The lecturer promised to avail himself if necessary of the other's generosity, and they went in together. It is said that the Hebrew's face was a study when he saw his "high roller" companion throw off his overcoat and mount the platform.

W. S. WRIGHT.

was now reached without any trouble, and in short order Jimenez won the day and had the satisfaction of hearing himself proclaimed president of the republic.

Wright had been of great help to him throughout the campaign, and the victorious general was not ungrateful. He decided to show his gratitude by naming the American as general in chief of all the Dominican army. When Wright learned, however, that this army consisted of an undisciplined rabble of 4,000 colored troops, armed with guns of an antique pattern, he respectfully but firmly declined the honor.

Jimenez then determined to make him prime minister, but warned him that all he could expect wherewith to maintain the dignity of his high position was a salary of $300 a year. Prime minister Wright became, and got his salary, too, although Jimenez had to borrow the money from a friend.

A year had not passed before Jimenez ordered the premier to Washington on a secret and important mission—to sound the American state department on the question of its extending protection to the reigning government against internal enemies. Wright had scarcely begun his diplomatic task when the government of Santo Domingo was once more overturned and Jimenez compelled to flee for his life.

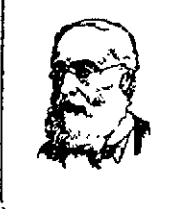

Wright is still in Washington, full of confidence that his old chief will ultimately come into his own once more.

NEW ENGLAND'S DEAD

By Isaac McLeellan

ON Aug. 20, 1820, Isaac McLeellan, poet, died in Greenport, L. I., at the age of ninety-three. Mr. McLeellan's early poems had been very popular with his generation, but younger readers know little or nothing of them. He was educated in the law, but gave up his practice for the life of a farmer, contributing to the magazine. He was a lover of nature and of sports and was sometimes called "the sportsman's poet." Mr. McLeellan's poems, "New England's Dead" and "The Death of Napoleon," were once familiar to all readers.

NEW ENGLAND'S DEAD! New England's dead!
On every hill they lie;
On every field of strife, made red
By bloody victory.

Each valley, where the battle poured
Its red and awful tide,
Beheld the brave New England sword
With slaughter deeply dyed.

Their bones are on the northern hill,
And on the southern plain,
By brook and river, lake and fill,
And by the roaring main.

The land is holy where they fought,
And holy where they fell;
For by their blood that land was bought,
The land they loved so well.

Then glory to that valiant band,
The heroes saviors of the land!

O, weak and few their numbers were—
A handful of brave men;
But to their God they gave their prayer,
And rushed to battle then.

The God of battles heard their cry,
And sent to them the victory.

They left the ploughshare in the mould,
Their flocks and herds without a fold,
The sickle in the unshorn grain.
The corn, half-garnered, on the plain,
And mustered, in their simple dress,
For wounds to seek a stern redress,
To right those wrongs, come woe, come woe,
To perish, or overcome their foe.

And where are ye, O fearless men?
And where are ye to-day?
I call—the hills reply again
That ye have passed away;
That on old Bunker's lonely height,
In Trenton, and in Monmouth ground,
The grass grows green, the harvest bright
Above each soldier's mound.

The bugle's wild and warlike blast
Shall muster them no more;
An army now might thunder past,
And they heed not its roar.

The starry flag, 'neath which they fought
In many a bloody day,
From their old graves shall rouse them not,
For they have passed away.

LONG TIME AGO

By George P. Morris

NEAR the lake where drooped the willow,
Long time ago,
Where the rock threw back the billow,
Brighter than snow,
Dwelt a maid, beloved and cherished
By high and low;
But with autumn's leaf she perished,
Long time ago.

Rock and tree and flowing water,
Long time ago,
Bee and bird and blossom taught her
Love's spell to know,
While to my fond words she listened,
Murmuring low,
Tenderly her dove eyes listened,
Long time ago.

Mingled were our hearts forever,
Long time ago,
Can I now forget her?—Never!
No!—lost one—no!
To her grave these tears are given,
Ever to flow,
She's the star I missed from heaven,
Long time ago!

HER FIRST $100.

What the Delightful Creature Did With It After Much Advice.

How she acquired it it does not really matter—possibly by teaching school, painting fire screens or washing. Anyway when she found herself in possession of the sum she set about to see what she could do with it.

Certain amiable friends told her it would be very nice to buy some new dresses, hats, gloves, shoes and such. But she had a full assortment and didn't require anything of the sort. An aunt told her to invest it in a certain telegraph stock that would bring in good interest.

"But I want my hundred dollars all to myself, you know."

"Poor, foolish dear, it will all be yours, just the same. You can use the interest just the same. I know where you can draw—why, 6 per cent."

"What? That is only $6 a year! Six dollars is awfully small by the side of this. I'm going to count it again. Maybe some of it is gone." The very thought of such a thing made the little creature chatter. For the tenth time that day she sat down and counted the talismanic roll of bills—four twenties, one ten and two fives. It was all right, and her pulse resumed its normal beat. Suddenly she gave a little shriek of delight and jumped up and cried:

"I know just what I shall do! I'll get it—busted. I think that's what they call—"

"Child, what are you talking about?"

"Talking about finance, auntie. I'm going to make this stinky little roll into a big one. It doesn't show off at all."

"You are queer, dear."

"I'm going to get it all in five dollar bills. I think the pictures on the fives are ever so much prettier." Life seemed more rosy after the delightful creature possessed twenty nice, crisp fives. She counted and recounted them when another fancy came.

"I'm tired looking at these common bills. They don't jingle and ring. I'm going to get five nice, clean, new twenty dollar goldpieces." No sooner was it said than done. The table rang for two days as she tossed the bright yellow pieces about like jack stones. Even then she wasn't quite happy. The little pile of twenty dollar yellow boys looked so small. Then she scouted about and got together 100 silver dollars. She polished every one daily and played with them. Next she got 200 fifty cent pieces. But life was still an aching void. She at last owned $100 in twenty-five cent coins. Surely she must be satisfied now. But, no; she broke into one of the quarters, felt discouraged after that and was quite unlike her old self until she found one little nickel left, the very last coin of the hundred dollars that had caused her so much trouble.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Snakes.

There exists among many persons a belief that snakes are creatures of more or less defective organization. Deprived of legs and reduced to effect their movements by sinuous windings of their elongated bodies and tails, they have an appearance of helplessness which may by itself excite compassion. Yet no mistake of the kind could well be greater. The principles of evolution suffice to make it evident that the structure of serpents must be tolerably good or else they could never have survived nature's many destructive agencies. But, in fact, their structure is a marvel of admirable contrivances and accurate adjustments, so that we must affirm them to be as perfectly adapted to their requirements and peculiar modes of life as any other animals.—Quarterly Review.

Iconoclasm.

"Well," said the man who had come in from the remote wilds, "I suppose you've took your seat in congress again."

"No. You remember, I had the misfortune to be defeated."

"You don't say! And after me traveling forty mile to vote for you! The folks out our way will shore be surprised. So you ain't goin' to sit in congress no more?"

"I'm afraid not."

"Well, well! Things are certainly goin' queer these days. I reckon they'll be movin' the Washington monument next!"—Washington Star.

FARM AND GARDEN

KANSAS STEER FEEDING.

Grain Mixed With Roughage—Minor Points of Comfort.

The stockman who is feeding his fattening steers grain and roughage thoroughly mixed finds that, with ordinary care in feeding, his steers not only do not have the scours, but that an animal is seldom off feed. The farm department of the Kansas experiment station makes this assertion in a recent bulletin and gives the following reasons for it:

Average corn contains 72 per cent of starch. Starch in feed is not absorbed until the system and used in building up the body and sustaining life until it is changed to sugar. When changed to sugar, it is readily absorbed and used in the body. The saliva of the mouth has the power to make this change.

FEED BOXES FOR GRAIN AND HAY MIXED.

while the juices of the stomach do not. It follows, then, that the method of preparing the feed that will induce the steer to chew it the most thoroughly and for the longest time will secure the greatest amount of saliva mixed with the feed and the greatest amount of starch changed to a form that will build up the steer's body.

When grain and roughage are mixed together, the steer eats slowly, giving much time for the food to become saturated with the saliva and for the saliva to act on the starch. When the food is swallowed, it goes from the mouth to the paunch. When the food reaches the paunch, the finer portions, such as grain fed alone, are forced directly into the third stomach and onward. The coarse food and the grain mixed with it, when the grain is thoroughly mixed with the roughage, are held for quite awhile in the paunch, where the saliva and the water which the steer drinks make them soft and moist and the saliva continues to change the starch to sugar. After the coarse feed has remained in the paunch until it is thoroughly softened it is brought back into the mouth and rechewed as the cud. This allows more saliva to be mixed with it, which in turn changes more starch into sugar, and the rechewing reduces the food to a greater fineness. The second time the food is swallowed it passes to the paunch, and the fine particles go to the third and fourth stomachs, where the action of saliva ceases.

When the grain is fed separately from the roughage, the animal chews it but little, swallows it quickly, it stays but a short time in the paunch, and but a small portion or none is brought up with the cud and remasticated. This allows for slight action only of the saliva. The starch, which forms 72 per cent of corn, is not acted on by the gastric juice of the stomach, and the large proportion, which has not been changed by the saliva, passes to the intestines undigested. Some of the juices of the intestines change the starch to sugar, but what remains unchanged irritates the intestines, producing looseness and scouring.

The boxes used in a test of mixed feeding at the Kansas station were 10 feet long, 3 1/2 feet wide at the top, 2 feet wide at the bottom, 1 1/2 feet in depth and were 2 1/2 feet from ground to top. They were made tight and were portable, so that they could be kept in the driest part of the yard. The steers were fed in the open air. One feed box was required for each ten steers, and the grain and roughage were mixed and fed together in the same feed box. The feeds were mixed and fed dry. Subsequent experience indicates that it would have paid to dampen the hay before mixing it with the roughage.

When the steers began to shed their hair in the spring, they threatened to rub the sheds and fences down. These twenty-five to thirty feet in length

GRANVILLE.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY FRANCHISE ACCEPTED.

Oratorical Contest at Denison University—Thirteen Contestants—Women's Clubs Lecture.

Granville, O., Jan. 7.—The regular meeting of the village council was held on Tuesday evening. When the Clerk called the roll every member responded to his name when it was called, and President J. M. Swartz was in the chair.

The usual routine business was transacted after which the matter of granting a franchise to the Newark & Granville street railway, was taken up. Attorney James R. Fitzgibbon, representing the company, was present, and made a statement in which he said that the company desired several changes in the ordinance before accepting the franchise. Mr. Fitzgibbon said that one of the changes desired by the company was that they should not be required to heat their cars by electricity and the other that it should not be required to run cars to the B. & O. station in Newark, as it was the intention of the company to run its cars around the public square as soon as the loop could be constructed.

After some discussion of the matter Council conceded the requests of the railway company, and the ordinance was accepted by the company.

The ordinance as it now stands requires that the company shall establish waiting rooms in Newark and Granville, at which all cars must stop and the conductor announce the presence of the car. The ordinance also requires that the conductor shall announce the departure of cars from the T. & O. C. station in Granville, and that whenever there is a passenger for the station that the cars must be run to the station. The ordinance also specifies that cars must be run between Granville and Newark from 5:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m., running one car each way every sixty minutes. There were no further changes in the ordinance.

On Monday, January 5, the Women's clubs of Granville enjoyed a treat in the form of a lecture by Mrs. L. E. Bryant, preceptress of Montrose school for Girls, South Orange, N. J. The speaker, formerly Miss Linda Munson, has been known in Granville and Newark all her life, and so her audience was expecting to hear something worth while. Plans had been made for Mrs. Bryant, who was here spending her vacation with her mother, Mrs. Munson, to speak in Newark before the club of Newark and Granville, but for many reasons these fell through at the last minute, and so the arrangements for her address in the Presbyterian church, in Granville, were hurriedly made. Although the weather was most unpleasant, a good audience, made up of the women's clubs and of other citizens of Granville, and of the members of the Monday Talks and Review Club of Newark was present. The Newark people did not arrive until the lecture was nearly over, thereby missing a rare treat. The speaker was introduced by Miss Eva Robinson. Her subject, "Have We an Authentic Picture of Our Lord," was handled with ability and enthusiasm.

The negative side of the theologian and the affirmative side of the artists which the speaker herself held, were clearly stated at each point. The traditions and the history bearing on the subjects from the earliest period were given, illustrated by many pictures from the catacombs of St. Calixtus from Byzantine art, etc. Then, the type thus early formed, was followed down through the history of painting with many illustrations from the great masters. In conclusion Mrs. Bryant spoke at some length upon the subject of the Holy Shroud at Turin, Italy, which has been attracting so much attention for the last year. An attempt has been made by a French scientist to prove that the faint impression of a figure on the cloth, called the shroud of the Lord, was caused by vapor of ammonia escaping from the dead body, acting chemically upon the species by which it was surrounded, and that the cloth was really what it is called, but that the figure was produced in accordance with natural laws, and not miraculously. Space will not permit of speaking of this at length, but it was of great interest, the subject being new to most of the audience.

Mrs. Bryant spoke with clearness and enthusiasm, holding the attention of her audience with increasing interest to the end.

The annual oratorical contest of Denison university to select a representative to the intercollegiate contest will be held at Reuben hall this evening. This will be the most interesting and spirited contest that has been held in Granville for a number of years, as there will be thirteen contestants for the honor. Following is the program:

Serenade, Pierne, Mr. Judson.

Decision of Judges.

The work of the drillers on the Sinec farm, north of the village, has been greatly interfered with on account of the strong flow of salt water. At a depth of about 2100 feet the flow of salt water became so strong that it was necessary to case the entire well at an additional expense of about $2,500. This work has been completed and the men are now engaged in lining out the salt water. Mr. Ewing, representing the company that is putting down the well, has been on the ground for the past several days overseeing the work, and he is greatly encouraged over the outlook for a good well.

INTERURBAN

MEN FROM THE EAST VISIT NEWARK.

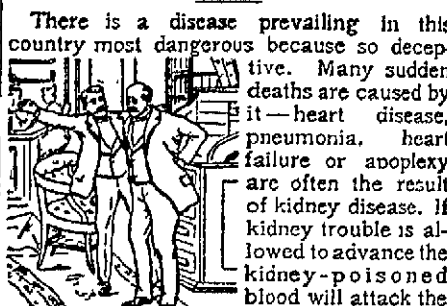

Misconception Among People About the Different Interurban Interests. Newark-Zanesville.

Several Eastern Interurban men of prominence were in Newark Tuesday as guests of Manager J. R. Harrigan of the Buckeye Lake and Newark & Granville lines. They were Chauncey Eldridge, Boston, treasurer of the Buckeye Lake and Newark and Granville companies; P. L. Soltensal, president of the Newark & Granville company; C. A. Alderman, chief engineer for the Appleyard syndicate, and Mr. Pettigrew, of Boston, Tucker & Anthony's chief engineer.

These gentlemen went over portions of the company's properties, and transacted other business.

Mr. Alderman, of the Appleyard syndicate, is connected with the construction of the Newark & Zanesville road, which will be pushed forward to completion as soon as the weather permits.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or aneurysm are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys—poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys; and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both Home of Swamp-Root sent free by mail, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Wehrle-Thomas Proposition.

To the Citizens of Newark:—

We, the undersigned citizens of Newark, O., having carefully investigated and examined the propositions of Messrs. Wehrle and Thomas, to erect and operate two large plants in this city, employing between 800 and 1,000 men, upon the simple condition that the Board of Trade will sell 200 lots at an average price of $250 each, by the 15th day of January, 1903, unhesitatingly endorse the same as being the largest, most substantial, businesslike and promising proposition ever offered to the citizens of Newark, and we recommend that these 200 lots be subscribed for at once and the propositions be accepted not later than Monday next and we hereby pledge ourselves to give at least one day to the work of securing lot subscribers.

TO CUBA

Union Association of Lumber Dealers
SUNDAY—22 Avenue up to go for Trip.

The directors of the Union Association of Lumber Dealers of the States of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky have arranged to run a grand excursion to Cuba. The excursionists will leave Pittsburg on January 22d, by special train for New York, and will leave New York on the 23d via one of the New York and Cuban Mail Steamship company's boats for Havana. The party will arrive in Havana on the morning of January 27, and returning will leave Havana January 31st, arriving home about the 5th of February. At this time of the year no better trip than this could be arranged. The weather at Havana will be all that could be desired. Havana will be in the height of her social season—the Cuban Mardi Gras. The streets of the city will be thronged with tourists from all parts of the world who will vie with each other in having a good time. Mr. F. M. Smith of this city, who is the secretary of the association, requests the Advocate to say that parties in Newark who may desire to make the trip can secure all the information regarding the same by calling on him.

Frankfort-on-Main is the richest city in Germany. The average annual income of its taxpaying population is $1,345. In Berlin it is only $655.

There is nothing so important in domestic economy as a well organized diet. When the stomach properly digests nutritious food it creates a pure blood and fortifies the system against colds, influenza, pneumonia, etc. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a great combination of pure, rich port and the best quality of pure cod liver oil, which gives it its strength for the weak digestive system, restores the appetite, builds and tones up the entire system.
